

Rita gets in the car to get home. The MyRadio app starts playing a custom station she had set up before.

While driving, she gets the traffic digest, and heads to a different route to avoid an accident.

As her husband is also driving, the radio host communicates his current location, as well as his estimated time to arrive home, in between songs.

Right before arriving home, she gets the weather alert. As it will be raining, she calls her son to bring her an umbrella when she arrives.

[Signature]