Tomás sets up a 12-hour long radio station for his long way to the beach with Franke. He gets an hourly news digest with traffic information based on his route.

In early afternoon, his favorite soccer team, Benfica, is playing against Sporting. So the radio station automatically plays the game's report and commentaries.

After the game ends, the radio host responds his friends' commentaries regarding the game.

Right before arriving at his destination, and after the station featured his favorite album, a voice ring by his wife is played, telling him his family's enjoys.
